June 2020 eNewsletter

We've waited for this day

How fitting that after the COVID virus isolation we were free to reassemble for worship on Pentecost. I didn't see doves descending or tongues of flame but felt the spirit's presence as we gathered. How appropriate that we sang "We've waited for this day" to open the service. We have gathered in his name through our "hunker down" period, but it is just not the same, is it? I know I have longed to see you face-to-face and to sing God's praises together.

So for those who couldn't attend, we were face-to-face at Goose Lake Park on a cool and slightly breezy morning with most wearing masks and maintaining comfortable distance. There was an interesting assortment of folding camp chairs where folks settled in family groups. There was also lots of room and fresh air for adults and kids to roam throughout our meeting. Our worship team was set up under the park pavilion where the gear would be protected from the forecasted rain that never happened. All in all, I found outdoor worship to be a pleasant experience and I recommend it to you and your friends and neighbors as we proceed.

Pastor Mike touched on the rise of anxiety and depression in our country reported in the news before his message from the five praises of Isaiah 25. I pray Mike's message and this newsletter find you healthy and hopeful as we continue to seek the new normal.
